

The Well on Wednesday presents

SQUARE ONE for Autism and other Special Needs

Overview

Square One for Autism is an informative course created and facilitated by author and local neurologist/neurodevelopmental disabilities specialist, Dr. Tanjala Gipson. This 4-week initiative drives into the many facets of Autism Spectrum Disorder. This course is ideal for families of a loved one newly diagnosed, previously diagnosis but you still may have lingering questions and families that suspect their loved one may in fact have autism and you want to be informed of any red flags to look for as possible indicators that your loved one needs to be tested for autism.

Agenda

Week 1

❖ What Is Autism

Participates will learn how autism is defined and how to obtain a diagnosis.

❖ Why Autism

We will discuss genetic testing and genetic factors that may contribute to autism.

Week 2

❖ What To Do About Autism (Non-Medication Strategies)

Week 3

❖ Making Informed Medication Choices

Week 4

❖ Rotating Workshops

How to Register

Go to, www.hopepres.com, look for the “About” tab across the top of the home page. Scroll down the “Events” and look for “Square One for Autism and other Special Needs” and click, “view more details” and register for this course.

>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>Check This Out>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>

Author Dr. Tanjala Gipson's newest book, Square One for Autism is the first in a series of books she hopes will serve as an introduction to this journey of getting your loved one an autism diagnosis and provides readers with an outline of the critical first steps in this unique journey. To order for you or someone you may know who need to be inspired with hope during this ever changing journey, please visit <https://northstarinstituteforautism.org/>.

