

March 21, 2022, Issue 11

Two Weeks to Sine Die

Nichola Hines, president of LWV Atlanta-Fulton County, addressing the press with organizations opposing HB1464 to criminalize election investigations.

Andrea Young, head of the ACLU, addressing the crowd with students of HBCU to protest the suppression of voting rights and the right to demonstrate.

A lot of legislative activity happens in the halls. Lobbyists row, outside the House and Senate chambers, where accredited lobbyists line up to “work the rope” when legislators take a break.

Because you can’t protest an anti-protest bill (SB171) without a protest.

Crossover Day is fueled with caffeine and sugar. Comfortable shoes help.