Happy Women's History Month - Redistricting

Redistricting

SB472 to redistrict the Public Service Commission (PSC) passed the Senate and the House. It will now be sent to the Governor. The PSC oversees the cost of electricity and other utilities. Georgia is one of the only states that does not have a regulatory agency overseeing utility pricing. If this map becomes law, it is expected to be challenged in court based on violation of the Voting Rights Act for racial discrimination.

SR564 was proposed by Sen. Sheikh Rahman (D-5, Lawrenceville) to require bills for redistricting county commissions and school boards to always be treated as local legislation. It was defeated in the Senate Rules Committee.
