

Harms Woods Work Outing

Evanston Interreligious Sustainability Circle

Sunday, October 23
1:00 pm – 4:00 pm

Meet at Glenview Woods parking lot
(west side of Harms Road, just south of Glenview Rd.)

Join us October 23rd for an afternoon in beautiful Harms Woods, led by the very knowledgeable long-time stewards, John and Jane Balaban. We will be doing critical work by collecting native wildflower seeds, which will later be used to reseed areas cleared of buckthorn invasive shrubs. It's easy and interesting work, and is appropriate for all ages, including young people (should be 12 or older and youth must be accompanied by an adult) and senior citizens. Dress for the weather and possible muddy conditions and bring your own water. Masks not required (unless unvaccinated); bring your own work gloves if desired (although gloves and collection bags will be provided).

For more information or to reserve a spot:

contact Susan at Susan.L.Comstock@gmail.com 847-807-9760 or Dale at dalecgriffin@comcast.net 312-637-0598