

Raising Funds for a Healing Space for Liz Kennedy Eason

Many of you know that Liz, our beloved UCE Sexton, has been diagnosed with pancreatic cancer. It is a difficult diagnosis and all of us who love Liz, Steven, and their family are holding them in care as they face a challenging time ahead. Liz begins chemotherapy next week and will be spending healing time at her daughter Lindsey's new home.

Many of you have asked, "How can we help?" Thank you for asking! We will all need to pitch in to continue Liz's incredible care for our building, along with Steven, our Custodian. AND another really great way to show your support would be to make a contribution, of any amount, to help Liz and her family set up a healing space in Lindsey's new home. If you have any cash to spare and would like to send a gift to Liz so that she can make the space supportive, beautiful, and filled with healing energy, that would be so appreciated.

To share your financial gift with Liz, please make out a check to Liz Kennedy Eason, or put cash in an envelope marked for Liz and send or drop it off at church. DoorDash gift cards are great, too! Steven collects and delivers envelopes everyday. Liz also can accept Zelle or Paypal. Let Suzanne know if you need instructions for doing that.

Since these would be personal gifts to Liz, they would not be tax deductible.

Another simple way to send Liz love and positive energy is to pick up one of these red bracelets at the UCE office. If you know Liz, red is her color! These red strings can have many meanings across cultures and religions, including protection, good luck, and connection, and even ward off misfortune from the "evil eye."

Wear one on your wrist or ankle, to keep Liz in your thoughts. We have a limited supply of these free bracelets, so stop in soon!
