WOMEN IN ENGINEERING VISIT DAY

and Donovan Breakfast

Dec. 9, 2017 The University of Akron Student Union Ballroom

The Women in Engineering Visit day and Donovan Breakfast is a casual event. It's our way of introducing you to engineering and what UA has to offer.

The dynamic, half-day program includes:

- 8-8:30AM - Registration
- 8:30-9AM - Welcome Presentation
College of Engineering with Director of Women in Engineering Introduction – Leadership
- 9-10:30AM - Ninth Annual Donovan Breakfast
(free breakfast with professional and student engineers)
- 10:30-11:30AM - Williams Honors College student panel
- 11:30AM-12:30PM - Tour newly renovated Auburn Science and Engineering Center labs, as well as the Donovan Engineering Design Center

Visiting campus is an important factor in making the decision to attend a university, so we want to give you a chance to experience UA firsthand:

- Get a feel for the campus
- Receive advice from students and professionals in engineering
- Meet other female engineers and role models
- Do an engineering activity

We need more Women in Engineering and we want you here at UA!

To register go to www.uakron.edu/wie and click on K-12 programs. For questions, contact Heidi Cressman at hec9@uakron.edu or call 330-972-7701.

Margaret Donovan

The Donovan Breakfast honors one of our longest standing donors in the College of Engineering for her tireless efforts to encourage more women to pursue engineering careers. Margaret Donovan has supported the Women in Engineering Program since 1993. Mrs. Donovan's continued support has allowed The College of Engineering to provide scholarships and assistance to our female engineering students, while supporting the Engineering Design Center and other Women in Engineering college-wide initiatives.
