

Andrés Ovalle

Teaching Arborist, Home Tree Care 101

Andrés Ovalle earned his degree in forestry engineering from the University of Chile, Santiago, Chile. He also holds an arborist certification from the International Society of Arboriculture. Andrés worked for many years in the eco-tourism industry and has held every position from naturalist to program director. Most recently, he was leading a park activation program in Montgomery County, MD, engaging with local communities and businesses, and generating nature-based programs for diverse audiences. Andrés values environmental education, good communication, and building community-oriented programs. Andrés is a tree lover and in his spare time, he likes to be outside, hiking, kayaking, and gardening with his family.
