

I was ordained to the diaconate on May 16, 2009 in the Episcopal Diocese of New Jersey. My focus of ministry was social justice, primarily in helping the congregations I served discern the needs of the marginalized and empowering them to carry out feeding and clothing programs in the local communities. This included opening a clothing thrift store and assisting my last congregation in becoming a Center for Jubilee Ministry.

In March of 2018, I retired after a 17 year career with the Cape May County Department of Social Services. My husband Rich and I moved to Wilmington, NC in May 2018 to be closer to two of our children, Theresa and Matthew who live in Wilmington. We, also have another daughter, Jennifer who lives in Maryland. We enjoy spending as much time as we can with them and our seven grandchildren.

Since moving to Wilmington, I have been attending services at Holy Cross Church while taking a much needed sabbatical. Having been licensed in the Diocese of East Carolina, I look forward to continuing to bring the church to the world and the world to the church.
