Survey Course in Planning, Evaluation, and Accountability

About this Graduate Course

MHS 7740 • CRN14916

Survey Course in Planning, Evaluation, and Accountability

Spring 2027

Classes will be offered Tuesdays from 5:00-7:45 p.m. in a hybrid/blended format designed to fit your busy schedule.

No Prerequisites Courses Required

Instructor

Connie Walker-Egea, PhD, RDN, LND

More Information

cwalkere@usf.edu

Events, activities, programs and facilities of the University of South Florida are available to all without regard to race, color, marital status, gender, sexual orientation, religion, national origin, disability, age, Vietnam or disabled veteran status as provided by law and in accordance with the university's respect for personal dignity. USF is an EO/EA institution.

Course Description

This graduate introductory course is designed to provide a comprehensive overview of planning, evaluation and accountability methods within a systems context. Emphasis is placed on a broad range of quantitative and qualitative methods.

Course Format

This course includes both live (synchronous) and online (asynchronous) sessions. Live sessions are offered through Microsoft Teams. The course features a combination of lectures, class discussions, class presentations, and practical applications of course content.

Who should take this course

This course is ideal for master's and doctoral students and professionals in:

- Behavioral Health Science and Practice
- Mental Health Counseling
- Public Health
- Social Work and Human Services
- Healthcare Administration
- Criminal Justice
- Aging Studies
- Other disciplines in which planning, program evaluation, performance measurement, and accountability are essential to organizational effectiveness

Register Now before the course fills up!

UNIVERSITY of SOUTH FLORIDA

Child & Family Studies
College of Behavioral & Community Sciences