

Your Voice Matters: Help Strengthen Dementia Care

Share your experience to strengthen support across Florida

Looking for:

Family caregivers of people with dementia (any age) and adults aged 65+ without memory problems

About the Study (IRB# 010334)

The University of South Florida is conducting a research study to better understand the mental and behavioral health support needs of older adults living with dementia, older adults at higher risk of dementia, and their family caregivers across Florida. Your input will inform the development of a free online training series for behavioral health workers in Florida.

Are You Eligible?

- ▶ Adults aged 65+ without memory/cognitive problems
- ▶ Family caregiver or care partner of an individual living with dementia (any age)
- ▶ Living in Florida year-round

What to Expect

- ▶ Step 1: Complete a 15-minute online survey to determine eligibility
- ▶ Step 2: Participate in a 90-minute focus group via Zoom
- ▶ Receive a $40 Amazon e-gift card for focus group participation

Why Your Input Matters

- ▶ Help identify training gaps, barriers, and workforce challenges in dementia-capable behavioral health services, support, and resources
- ▶ Contribute to the development of an online training series for behavioral health workers
- ▶ Support better outcomes for people living with dementia and their families
- ▶ Help strengthen dementia informed care across Florida communities

How do I participate?

Scan QR code to enroll

Questions?

Contact: Nik Lampe, PhD

Email: CBCS-Dementia-BHW@usf.edu

Text/call: (813) 485-5520

UNIVERSITY of
SOUTH FLORIDA

Department of Behavioral Health Science & Practice
College of Behavioral & Community Sciences