

USF School of Aging Studies • Florida Policy Exchange Center on Aging

Policy Series Lecture

“The CoreQ Survey: Developing a measure of resident and family satisfaction with nursing homes and assisted living communities.”

Nicholas Castle, PhD, MHA, FGSA

Chair and Professor, Department of Health Policy, Management and Leadership
West Virginia University School of Public Health
Website: Nicholas Castle | Health Sciences Directory | West Virginia University \(wvu.edu\)

Dr. Nicholas Castle currently has over 230 publications and has served as PI on 14 grants. He is the International Editor for The Gerontologist. His areas of expertise include Long Term Care, Epidemiology of Aging, Health Systems Improvement, Occupational Health, and Obesity. Dr. Castle was awarded the American College of Health Care Administrators Long-Term Care Research of the year award (2001), the Public Health Service Award in (2011), and the GSA Brody Thought Leader award (2016).

Sponsored by the School of Aging Studies & Florida Policy Exchange Center on Aging.

Any non-School of Aging Studies participants should RSVP Jim Scull at jscull@usf.edu or call 813-974-2414

Monday, March 18, 2024

1:00 pm in MHC 1739 – In person

UNIVERSITY of
SOUTH FLORIDA

College of Behavioral & Community Sciences
School of Aging Studies