INTELLECTUAL AND DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES: A NARRATIVE REVIEW OF RACIAL/ETHNIC DISPARITIES IN HEALTHCARE OUTCOMES

SAHTI GILELA is a fourth-year medical student at the University of South Florida Morsani College of Medicine. She is from San Jose, California, and attended UC San Diego for undergrad, where she majored in Physiology and Neuroscience and double-minored in Music and Psychology. She will be graduating medical school in May and has chosen psychiatry as her specialty. Sahiti was mentored at the Florida Center for Inclusive Communities by Dr. Elizabeth Perkins.

PRESENTATION DESCRIPTION: Sahiti Gilela and Dr. Elizabeth Perkins recently conducted a narrative review of racial and ethnic disparities in healthcare outcomes for people with IDD, which they presented as a poster during the AUCD 2022 Annual Conference. During our webinar presentation, Sahiti will share a more in-depth look of their findings, which suggest that healthcare disparities remain a prevalent issue and are exacerbated for those people at the intersection of IDDs and racial/ethnic minority. Some of the recommendations that will be discussed include that the federal government classify IDD populations as medically underserved and appropriately train all healthcare workers to recognize and minimize these disparities.

Please join us for a lively discussion! Bring your questions, curiosities, and concerns to share with an empathetic and curious community of learners.
