Park Hosts American Indian Guest Artist Program at Colter Bay

MOOSE, WY — Grand Teton National Park is hosting American Indian Artists at the Colter Bay Visitor Center this summer to share their traditional and contemporary art with park visitors. Participating artists will demonstrate and share the cultural traditions of their tribes through art forms such as painting, weaving, pottery, beadwork, and musical instruments.

Visitors are invited to learn more about American Indian cultures and view demonstrations daily. This annual program is scheduled through September 30 and available during open hours of the Colter Bay Visitor Center. Artists also offer their finished items for purchase.
