

Jay Ship

Xs & Os of Success – Chief Executive Officer

Jay Ship has combined his love for business and philanthropy with his passion for sports. He is the Chief Executive Officer of Xs & Os of Success - a leadership, organizational and professional development company which uses the platform of sports and its teachings to help individuals and teams maximize their potential in business and life. Xs & Os of Success works with a network of national contacts in the sports industry - including athletes, coaches and administrators - to help provide unique insights into creating successful environments that produce winning results in the field of business - and in life.

Ship is the former Vice President and Chief Operating Officer of an international leadership development company. As such he was responsible for all Accounting, Finance, Human Resource, and Operational activities for the organization. During Ship's time with the company he oversaw an operation that trained more than 10,000 people. Additionally, during his tenure Ship oversaw the company's transition from a leader in personal development training to an operation with a more balance portfolio of products including professional and organization development trainings.

Jay began his professional career in 1994 with National Response Corporation (NRC) a wholly owned subsidiary of SEACOR Holdings, Inc. In 1999, Jay accepted his first executive position with a Bay Area based wireless start-up company named Globe Wireless. He served as Controller of the company until 2002 when he returned to New York to serve as Chief Financial Officer for a privately held environmental firm. In the summer of 2005, Jay relocated to Las Vegas where he served as a Senior Analyst for the multi-billion dollar company, Rinker Materials, and later CEMEX, USA.

Jay Ship was born and raised on Long Island. From 1990 to 1994, he attended Le Moyne College in Syracuse, New York, where he completed studies in Accounting and Taxation. He currently resides in Henderson, Nevada. Jay is an enthusiastic sports fan. He attended Le Moyne on a baseball scholarship, and in 1994, he was named the first captain of the school's Division I baseball team since 1970; nearly 25 years. His passion for leadership on the field has given way to leadership in his community. Jay has most recently served as Vice President of the Board of Directors for the Children's Heart Foundation, was named by Nevada's No. 1 ranked high school, A-Tech Academy's Person of the Year, and is the founding sponsor of the UNLV Rebel Kids Club.

Only his passion for his family exceeds Jay's love of competition. Jay lives an extraordinary life with his amazing wife, Lynette, and their two beautiful children, Olivia and Joey. The Ship family currently resides in Henderson, NV.
