TRAINING ANNOUNCEMENT

Title: Overstimulated: Stimulant Use, Trends and Treatment

When: May 26, 2021 10:00 – 12:00pm

Where: Link via Microsoft Teams will be sent to all registrants prior to training

Who Should Attend: Addiction Counselors, Counselors and Family Therapists, Social Workers, Supervisors, or other interested healthcare professionals

Prerequisite: None

Description: Stimulant use has received less emphasis in the public eye in recent years, but its presence has been consistent, and its impact is being increasingly seen both locally across the United States. This training session will focus on central nervous stimulants and their impact on the user's brain, body, and behavior. Specific topics covered will include the scope of stimulant use in the United States, the impact of stimulants on the brain and cognition, stimulant use and psychosis/psychiatric co-mobility, short- and long-term health consequences of stimulant use, and effective evidence-based behavioral treatments and recovery approaches for people with stimulant use disorder.

Objectives: At the conclusion of this training, participants will be able to:

- list at least three types of stimulants;
- describe the patterns and trends of stimulant use;
- identify at least three impacts of stimulant use on people who use them; and
- summarize at least two specific treatment interventions that have proven effective in treating people with a stimulant use disorder.

Trainer: James Campbell, LPC, LAC, MAC, CACII
