"White Oak Medical Center will allow us to provide high-quality, high-touch care in a patient-centered, state-of-the-art facility that will advance healthcare in our community and throughout the region," said Dr. Jim Rost, chief medical officer of White Oak Medical Center.

White Oak Medical Center will provide acute care services including Heart and Vascular, Cancer, Maternity & Childbirth, Orthopedic, Emergency Care, Surgery and Imaging and Lab services. The adjoining Medical Pavilion, opening Spring 2020, will offer outpatient doctors' offices and services.

White Oak Medical Center is located on 11890 Healing Way, Silver Spring, Md. off Rte. 29 at Plum Orchard Drive. Adjacent to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration's (FDA) headquarters, the new hospital is at the center of the White Oak Science Gateway, a developing life sciences community bringing together medical researchers, businesses and retailers.

The new hospital is projected to contribute $5 billion to the state economy and create over 7,500 jobs, expanding access to high-quality healthcare, while also bringing economic and job growth to the community.
