

Kudos!

Kudos, Jason Armstrong!

Jason Armstrong is our sole IT staff member with a lot of responsibility, significant workload, and area to cover, managing computers, networks, and technology across the 6 branches. He goes about his work with quiet efficiency and competence, is responsive, and treats everyone respectfully.

In addition to the normal stuff (troubleshooting issues and fixing what's broken), he has been responsible recently for wiring and bringing South Cumberland back online, including setting up the PCs there, adding networked screens in each library with our system announcements and events, upgrading the PCs in each location, setting up our ability to track wireless usage in each library, networking color printers in each library so that people can copy and print from the public PCs to them, changing us over to Google/Gmail, upgrading our phone system and equipment, and installing new equipment in each library to upgrade our internet connectivity with E-Rate funding.

He works hard and is deserving of some recognition.

Thanks!

—Lisa McKenney

If you would like to nominate a staff member for the next issue, you can do so here.