Good News Fresh Food Fans!

For the first time, we plan to extend the market season by 4 weeks through November 12th!

As we all know, the COVID virus has changed the way we shop for food. We've seen new faces at our market this year and some shoppers have told us they feel safer shopping outdoors and purchasing from local farms and vendors. At the same time, some of our vendors have told us they are looking for new avenues to sell their wares because their customer base has changed during COVID.

The light turned on for us a few weeks ago when we moved the market under the Bickford Pavilion just down the street to escape the rain. Not only does the pavilion offer shelter from the weather, there's lighting, and off street parking. The Bickford family has graciously agreed to accommodate us, so we've decided to run the market under cover after our season wraps up at 317 Main on October 15th.

We hope you'll join us under the pavilion 10/22, 10/29 , 11/5, & 11/12. We expect to have a food truck on those days. Details on that soon.

It's up to all of us to commit to this community enterprise and this will only work if you continue to shop with us. We're confident you will.

Thank you. for supporting Maine farms and small businesses!

Sincerely,
Amy
