

Attendees can indulge in a variety of culinary delights from numerous food trucks, each offering unique and delicious options. Beyond the food, the event fosters networking opportunities among entrepreneurs, business owners, and community members, reinforcing the supportive ecosystem that The Greenhouse strives to cultivate.

Radio St. Pete will be on-site, broadcasting live to capture the essence of the event. Music Director, J Kolb, will play local music providing a soundtrack that complements the lively atmosphere. Interviews featuring local small businesses will include sharing stories and insights that highlight the community's vibrant spirit.

This event is part of a series of activities organized by The Greenhouse during National Small Business Week, which runs from May 4-10, 2025. The week is dedicated to acknowledging the critical contributions of America's entrepreneurs and small business owners. Other events include the Small Business Big Impact Expo on April 30, St. Pete Pitch Night on May 6, and workshops focused on business development and financing. By participating in these events, community members not only enjoy diverse culinary offerings and entertainment but also contribute to the growth and success of local businesses, reinforcing the collective strength of St. Petersburg's entrepreneurial community.

