Women Presidents' Organization Names Allison Tabor Chair of The Platinum V Chapter

-- Facilitates Monthly Meetings of Prestigious Peer Learning Organization --

New York, NY (August 24, 2020) -- The Women Presidents' Organization (WPO), a peer advisory group for million-dollar-plus, women-led companies, has named Allison Tabor, Owner of Coppia Advisory, as the new Chapter Chair of the Platinum V Chapter. Platinum is a WPO membership group available for women who gross over $10 million annually.

Allison Tabor is a pragmatic executive coach, speaker, facilitator, and the author of the best-selling book, Work Your Assets Off® -Stop Working So Hard in Business and In Life. She helps business owners, executives, and their teams in the areas of leadership, interpersonal communication, and strategic planning.

Allison became a San Francisco Bay Area Chapter Chair in 2012 and has been facilitating two local WPO chapters. She will now add the national Platinum V Chapter, which has 19 women entrepreneurs as members, each with annual revenues of at least $10 million.

"We are extremely fortunate that Allison will Chair the WPO Platinum V Chapter," said Marsha Firestone, Ph.D., WPO President and Founder. "We are highly selective in choosing a Chapter Chair, particularly for a Platinum Group. Her expertise in entrepreneurship is an asset for a dynamic group of national women entrepreneurs looking to take their companies to the next level through confidential and collaborative peer learning groups. Allison's personal mission to lead, develop and advocate aligns well with her new role with the WPO," she said.

WPO membership requires annual revenue of at least $2 million ($1 million for service-based companies) and an ownership interest in the company. For more information about membership to the WPO, contact Tomi Jane DeTorres, Membership and Chair Coordinator, tomijane@womenpresidentsorg.com or 212-688-4114.
