Participants will:

- Learn about recent changes to immigration processes and how they may impact family well-being.
- Explore strategies to support parents, prevent family separation, and assist in reunification
- Discuss key components of safety planning to help families prepare for unexpected disruptions.
- Identify opportunities to offer meaningful, concrete support to immigrant parents navigating issues at the intersection of immigration and child welfare.

This session is designed for child- and family-serving professionals, advocates, community leaders, and anyone seeking to protect and strengthen families.
