Nat Calcutta has been a Children's Advocate with Catalyst Domestic Violence Services since 2017 supporting children and their families who have been affected by intimate partner violence (IPV) participating in the agency's housing programs. Through her work she not only helps to provide advocacy to children and their parents, but also strives to implement and facilitate groups for children, youth and parents that will assist in trauma recovery, family bonding and healing. Previously, Nat worked as a mentor to first time freshman at CSU, Chico while completing her BA in Sociology and later as a Youth Developmental Specialist for the Boys & Girls Club of the North Valley.
