Christi Myers is the Director of Nursing at Lassen Community College and the proud daughter of Susanville Soroptimist member Sharon McBride. Christi has partnered with the Susanville Soroptimist chapter on multiple projects and has a passion for justice for all of humanity. Christi recently presented an international project idea to the Susanville chapter and shared her idea with the region. The Susanville chapter has graciously supported the idea of embracing this international project and look forward to the progress of supporting Preeti Misra along her journey.

Preeti Misra is a young lady who grew up in the slums of India. Raised by a father struggling with Polio and a mother who has recently passed due to cancer, Preeti maintains a positive and optimistic attitude as she sets goals for herself in a culture that struggles embracing ambitious young women. After crossing paths with Christi nearly a year ago, Preeti has made it her mission to attend nursing school in Northern California, a place where girls are free to succeed. This humble young lady has made a lasting impression on both Christi and other regional Soroptimist sisters. As international projects are often funded from a distance, supporting Preeti in her journey will provide an opportunity to see first-hand the success story that lies ahead.

Preeti has begun her education at Lassen Community College through online learning and is completing her third prerequisite on her journey toward nursing school. Preeti plans to complete nursing education through LCC and take the learned skills back to her home town to support her father and her community. Preeti embodies the mission of Soroptimist and provides an opportunity for us to further understand our sisters around the globe.
