Monica Levin is an author and speaker who has discovered that consistent application of scientifically proven body language skills positively impacts confidence, communication, relationships, productivity and happiness. Monica gives her audiences simple body language strategies so they can:

- Make a killer first impression
- Improve their presence
- Be more charismatic
- Be more perceptive of other's emotions
- Confidently pitch ideas
- Master their presentation skills
- Become better negotiators

"Monica gave our CEO Group a presentation on body language, and all of our members are now more confident and more assured in the effectiveness of their communication. She taught us how important nonverbal communication is and delivered lots of takeaways we could implement right away. This fascinating topic was delivered by Monica very professionally and energetically and I could see that she is an outstanding practitioner of her topic."
