

Michelle Elaine Kennedy

Michelle Kennedy worked as a TV News Reporter and Anchor in San Francisco and other Northern California markets over an eleven-year period. She holds a Master's in Broadcast and Electronic Communication Arts and consults with professionals and executives on on-camera performance. A SAG member, Kennedy also acts, models and hosts.

She currently teaches broadcast journalism at universities in San Diego and San Francisco and builds curriculum and courses in On-Camera Performance, Multimedia Production including Radio & TV News Writing, Broadcast Journalism, Digital Marketing, Branding, Transmedia Storytelling, and Multiplatform Production. Kennedy is currently teaching a course she built around portrayals of Gender, Race, and Class in the Media.

Kennedy is an author and speaker with a book and dozens of pieces published on major platforms like HuffPost Personal, Tiny Buddha, and Elephant Journal. Her writing balances heavy topics with humor and includes everything from feeling foolish in yoga class, to moving through grief and trauma, sobriety, belonging, world travel, and even dating. Kennedy coaches writers on everything from how to write winning essays for publication, to how to write books and query literary agents.

Michelle is delighted to be offering this workshop with The Suffield Players!
