

Shannon King, Ph.D. currently serves as Chief Innovation Officer at Battelle for Kids. Her involvement with Virginia's Profile of a Classroom began during her tenure as Manager of Best Practices for Teaching and Learning in Fairfax County Schools.

Shannon has more than 25 years of experience in education roles including classroom teacher, gifted education resource teacher, instructional coach, and as an administrator supporting professional development and instructional best practices. Shannon also works with graduate students as an Adjunct Professor at George Mason University and the University of Virginia teaching Masters level courses in educational leadership, curriculum and instruction, assessment, differentiation, gifted education and educational research.

Shannon leads Battelle for Kids' work on 21st century learning design and helping school leaders intentionally align the system to take their vision to scale.

She earned her Bachelor of Arts degree in Music at The University of North Carolina, her Masters of Science in Education at George Mason University, her Masters in Gifted Ed and her Administrative Endorsement from the University of Virginia and her Ph.D. in Educational Psychology at George Mason University.