

Chaplain Research Project

How Male Military Chaplains of Different Religions Provide Emotional and Spiritual Support to Women Soldiers: A Case Study

PURPOSE: To compare and contrast the ways in which male military chaplains of various religions provide emotional and spiritual support to female soldiers.

PARTICIPANTS: We are seeking chaplains from each of the following faith groups:
Protestant Catholic Jewish Muslim

TO QUALIFY:

You must be: male between the age of 30-50
currently serving in the U.S. Army, Navy, or Air Force

You must have: rank of O-3 or above at least four years of service experience providing pastoral support to female soldiers.

You may be : serving on active duty, in the reserves, or in the National Guard.

This is a University of Phoenix project and is not affiliated with the U.S. military. If you decide to participate, you can withdraw from the study at any time. The results of the research study may be published but your identity will remain confidential and your name will not be made known to any outside party.

To take part in the study or request additional information, please contact:

Dr. Daniel Roberts

or

Joann Kovacich, PhD

910-690-5964

dr.danielroberts@icloud.com

585-507-7182

jkovacich@email.phoenix.edu