Barber: The School for Scandal Overture
Bruch: Kol Nidrei, Op. 47
Sibelius: Symphony No. 3 in C major, Op. 52

The evening begins with a flash of sound with Barber's seemingly cinematic The School for Scandal Overture. This work was written by the just 21-year old Samuel who gives us fast-paced rhythmic excitement juxtaposed with very elegant melodic writing that will stick with you long after the performance. Cellist Evan Kahn then continues to make our souls sing with Bruch's Kol Nidrei, a rich and evocative work taking inspiration from two traditional Hebrew melodies. Finnish composer Jean Sibelius closes out the evening with his compact yet triumphal Third Symphony, a work brimming with nature-inspired melodies and optimistic brass complete with a joyously sunny conclusion.

WELCOME TO THE AUBURN SYMPHONY'S 2021/2022 SEASON!

Dear Music Lovers:

What a delight it is to welcome you to our Symphony season! This will truly be a special year as we introduce you to the three finalists in our journey to choose a new Music Director that began in March 2020. We invite you to attend the concerts and engage with these energetic and talented conductors. Your feedback will be included in the final decision to be made in the spring. Each finalist thoughtfully prepared their program with all of us in mind, aiming for a Sunday afternoon full of beautiful music, vibrant guest artists, and a unique opportunity of getting to know each other with pre- and post-concert talks. We will cap the season with a unique Mother's Day concert honoring all women with a prelude by a female composer, and showcasing three grand prize winners from our Young Artists Competition. All will be combined in a rich, robust, and triumphant finale program from longtime friend and guest conductor, Pete Nowlen. We will then be poised to launch the following season with our new Music Director and a return to a full schedule of traditional Masterworks and community concerts. Join us on this journey as we revive this season in order to THRIVE in the next!

Yours ever,

STEPHANIE SNYDER, PRESIDENT
 Auburn Symphony Board of Directors
