

Circumnavigation of Hilton Head Island In Shore Route

On June 16th, 2025, the ABCHH crews embarked on an exhilarating journey to circumnavigate Hilton Head Island using the in-shore route. With four boats and a crew of 15 enthusiastic individuals, the adventure began under perfect weather conditions. The skies were sunny, the temperatures warm, and the winds blew from the west-southwest at around 8 knots. Despite the presence of two to three-foot swells on the outside, the waters remained relatively calm with very little chop.

The journey commenced at the North End of Skull Creek. From there, the crews cruised out to Port Royal Sound, passing the North End of Hilton Head Island and Bay Point. Navigating around Joyner Banks, we then aimed for the shore, setting their sights on the Westin Hotel. The boats gracefully cruised down the shore of Hilton Head Island until they reached Braddock Point at the very southern tip of the island.

At Braddock Point, the crews maneuvered around Barrett Shoals and entered Calibogue Sound. Two of the boats rafted up for a delightful lunch at Brian Creek, just off Middle Marsh Cut, while the other two boats headed for their home port. The entire cruise lasted about two hours and covered approximately 35 miles.

The ABCHH crews enjoyed a memorable day on the water, taking in the stunning views of the Hilton Head Beaches and relishing the camaraderie of their fellow boaters. It was a perfect day for a cruise, and the experience left everyone looking forward to their next adventure on the beautiful waters around Hilton Head Island.
