Relaxed and Eclectic.

In the fashion world, a “capsule collection” consists of a few key items that are notably timeless in their design, usage and construction. But they are not basics. They are much more than the blue blazer or the single string of pearls. By their very definition they are fun, relaxed and often feature a distinctive update on a timeless classic.

Barry Goralnick began his career as an architect and has evolved into a notable designer of lighting, rugs and furniture. His designs are iconic for their versatility and unique design aesthetic. No single time period predominates. There is a blending of beloved periods with a sensibility of now. While every piece is unique, each possesses a common theme.

These styles are one-of-a-kind statement pieces that lend themselves to an individual eclectic design expression.

Goralnick explains his design philosophy: “No two people are alike, so no two rooms should be. Their home is an extension — and a unique expression — of their personal style.” Each piece in the collection is distinctive, yet plays well with others from within Vanguard and beyond.

“Today, the ultimate in success is living with ease — a casual glamour with a flair for the dramatic, but without all the drama.”

Where sophistication isn't formal.
And glamour is effortless.

Where entertaining is easy.
And stress simply pours away.

Where good times are precious,
but the furnishings aren't.

Where no two days — or rooms —
are ever the same.
