

FOLLOW THAT POOP!

Animals can carry and spread pathogens through their poop. Many of these pathogens are harmful to humans, and this is why it's important to keep their poop away from produce.

NO POOP ZONE

Salmonella

- Nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, cramps, fever
- Lasts a few days
- People with weak immune systems are highest risk

Campylobacter

- Fever, diarrhea, cramps, vomiting
- Lasts 2-10 days
- Kids under 5 and young adults 15-29 are highest risk

E. coli

- Bloody diarrhea, blood-clotting problems, kidney failure, death
- Average of 8 days
- Young children, elderly, people with weak immune systems are highest risk

Funding for this website was made possible in part by the Food and Drug Administration through grant PAR-16-137. The views expressed in the posted materials do not necessarily reflect the official policies of the Department of Health and Human Services, nor does any mention of trade names, commercial practices or organization imply endorsement by the United States Government.

Source: Bad Bug Book 2nd Edition, FDA