FMBK, LLP

Megan has practiced family law for 14 years with dedication to integrity and compassion. As a Certified Family Law Specialist and Partner at FMBK, LLP, Megan has earned recognition by Southern California Super Lawyers as a “Rising Star” from 2010-2017 and was named as one of the “Top Women Attorneys in Southern California” in Los Angeles magazine. She prides herself on her client-centered approach and believes strong advocacy requires both reasoned negotiation and decisive litigation strategies. Megan advocates vigorously for her clients in both respects, while simultaneously counseling them through what is often the most tumultuous experience of their lives.

Q: Who do you admire?

A: Abraham Lincoln. He once said lawyers should persuade compromise whenever possible and, as peacemakers, have a superior opportunity of doing good. He took a perceived failure, the Battle of Antietam, and used it as inspiration for his Emancipation Proclamation. I try to follow his lead and use adversity as inspiration to produce something meaningful.

Q: What would you be doing if you hadn’t become a family lawyer?

A: I originally wanted to serve as a diplomat in Latin America. In pursuit of that goal, I studied in Guatemala six months after the government signed the peace accords with the rebels, ending a three-decade civil war.

Q: What are your outside interests?

A: I am a volunteer with hospice and other charities. After adopting my rescue dog, Rodney, I became involved in animal rights charities. Additionally, I enjoy attending a meditation class taught by a fellow litigator.

Q: What is your favorite part about your practice?

A: Resolving the often times entrenched positions parties take in litigation such that the matter concludes with both parties feeling at peace. In court, I tenaciously advocate for my clients, doggedly questioning and analyzing until the evidence is thoroughly elicited.
