IBEC / D & D Engineering, Inc.

WLG is working in coordination with civil engineering and land development company D & D Engineering, Inc. (D & D) on the Inglewood Basketball and Entertainment Center (IBEC), a 28-acre, key LA Clippers-owned sports entertainment site located at the intersection of West Century Boulevard and South Prairie Avenue across from SoFi Stadium in Inglewood, CA. The project area will house an 18,000-seat arena, three parking garages, a practice facility, team offices, a sports medicine clinic, retail space, and a plaza.

As a partner to D & D on this project, WLG is providing surveying and mapping including base mapping; aerial and perimeter topo surveys (UAV); intersection/cross-sections; utility surveys; and boundary and legal descriptions/plats for a good portion of the work in the City of Inglewood and Hawthorne areas surrounding the new arena including freeway on-ramps and intersections within a three-mile radius. D & D is providing civil engineering including grading, water quality, and off-site improvements as well as overseeing potholing, some structural, and traffic signal/traffic management services. A portion of the entertainment center includes design-build features such as portions of the parking garages. Agencies team members have coordinated with includes the Cities of Inglewood and Hawthorne; Caltrans, Southern California Edison, Los Angeles County Department of Public Works, Los Angeles County Sanitation District, Golden State Water, West Basin Municipal Water District, the Federal Aviation Administration, and prime construction management companies to obtain permits and for site field visits/scheduling, among other items. The team has had some creative, hands-on engineering and surveying experiences for this major downtown and arterial area. The sports entertainment center is looking to break ground on construction in June of 2021 with season opening in the Fall of 2024.

D & D was established in 2017 with two offices in Southern California located in Inglewood and Burbank. D & D has a team of professionally registered engineers who provide services for developers, landowners, architects, and municipalities. They have had the luxury of working on two of the largest entertainment / sports projects in California that will house the LA Rams, San Diego Chargers, and LA Clippers.
