

EDC presents Datapalooza! – a statistics and demographics event for San Juan County

Need more data and information to make knowledgeable decisions about your business or as a community legislator or leader? Join the Economic Development Council of San Juan County (EDC) for their fifth annual Datapalooza! event, 1.5 hours of in-depth data and analysis of our economy and demographics, plus great conversation, on Tuesday, March 29th from 10:00-11:30 a.m. via Zoom online.

This year's program, sponsored in part by Island Market, will include presentations by noted speakers Dr. Anneliese Vance-Sherman, Regional Labor Economist for the State of Washington and James McCafferty, Director of WWU's Center for Economic & Business Research.

The presentations will explore our region's economy and demographics – past, present and future – including industry, employment and sales data, and current trends. This in-depth analysis will enable leaders and businesspeople to make informed decisions about issues that affect our community and economy.

Details: Tuesday, March 29th from 10:00-11:30 a.m., via Zoom. Tickets are $5 to $50 (with donation) and advance payment is required. Please visit www.sanjuansedc.org/datapalooza to reserve your space. For questions, please call (360) 378-2906 or email: victoria@sanjuansedc.org.

The EDC thanks Island Market in part for their support of this event and other EDC initiatives.
