FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

EDC to offer free Tree Worker Basics Course on Orcas Island

In partnership with Rain Shadow Consulting, the San Juan County Economic Development Council (EDC) will offer a free 6-week training in tree work and arboriculture, beginning December 5th. This course is sponsored by Walt Corbin and the Kiwanis Club of Orcas Island.

The course will be taught at the Rain Shadow Consulting office by Carson Sprenger, who has over 20 years of experience working in the forests of the San Juan Islands. This program is intended to benefit participating students as well as local companies in need of skilled employees.

The hands-on curriculum has been designed for students and career changers interested in working in the tree care/tree service and landscaping trades. The class will cover:

- Tree worker safety and how to avoid common injuries
- WA Labor & Industries laws and employer responsibilities for tree workers
- Tools of the trade (PPE, ropes, rigging systems, climbing systems, aerial lifts, hand saws, chain saws, chippers, tree service trucks)
- Proper pruning techniques (how to do it right!)
- Tree felling techniques and specialized rigging systems
- Care and feeding of your chainsaw and other common tool maintenance
- Working with rope: knots to know and basic splicing
- Tree and plant health (keep trees happy and thriving!)
- Common tree species and basic tree identification
- Tree physiology and how trees respond to injury
- Physical demands of working in the tree care trades
- Industry organizations and certification (from tree worker to certified arborist)

The class will have at least two guest speakers from local tree care companies and will end with a Saturday field day for some hands-on learning and equipment demonstrations. No tree felling or chainsaw use will be part of this class. The course will prepare students for an entry level arborist position, and is not intended for D.I.Y. home repairs.
