

Join Orcas Island Winery for an ART OPENING --featuring the works of local artist, NINNI.
Friday, September 3rd 5:30-7:30 PM- art, wine, music, light bites
The mixed media installation will exhibit over 45 works in ceramics, inks and textile exploration.
The show "Lu-Lu" is a singular exploration in owls.

Owls the observers

Mystical, known for wisdom, darkness, beauty and death. Owls are the ultimate observer, chances are you won't see them, but they are watching you.

Owls for NINNI are a symbol of her late father and a connection to things never to be understood...

"Lu-Lu" is in curation and installation with Tera Landman of Orcas Island Winery. The show will run through September 13th, 2021 at Orcas Island Winery. All works will be available for purchase.

Artist statement: At an early age I discovered art and design. It is my passion and lifelong challenge to solve a problem in a beautiful way. The past few years I have been enriching my mind and soul by adding clay arts to my breadth of mediums. I am a very hands on creative, always experimenting, and learning. It has been a wonderful gift to be able to now shift from a design career of over 20 years to focus on expressing through art. I strive to capture emotions through minimal lines and forms, to voice observations of humans and our perception of creatures and the world around us by evolving my small doodles and drawings into creative commentary and raise awareness in a unique way. behind my work which appears simple are often dark motifs, don't let the playful lead you to believe there isn't a deeper meaning.
