

JULY ARTIST OF THE MONTH AT WASHINGTON FEDERAL

Interdisciplinary artist Norris Carlson is excited to share Marks&Paper at Washington Federal Bank through the end of July. Norris' recent work was part of Submergence: Going Below the Surface with Orca and Salmon at Jack Straw Cultural Center in Seattle and the first issue of local beauty that is Source Paper. Norris has performed and exhibited her hybrid work in galleries, on stage, and ecological sites such as an abandoned slate quarry, a redwood forest, and an arroyo in the high desert. She lives with her husband Peter Carlson on a small organic farm/orchard near Dolphin Bay. Visit WaFd any time Monday to Friday between 9:00 am and 5:00 pm, through the end of this month.
