

ADULT SUNDAY SCHOOL ANNOUNCEMENT

If you are the kind of person who has long worried about how tough minded lovers of science can have faith in God, then what we will be doing next in adult Sunday school will be your cup of tea. We will be reading Richard Swinburne's Is There a God?

In spite of the efforts of so many to argue that faith in God is incompatible with the modern scientific age, Swinburne argues that the opposite is actually true. The modern discoveries of the scientific age give us more reason to be confident in the existence of God, not less.

Our study of Swinburne's book will take place over eight weeks beginning on February 11. There are seven chapters in Swinburne's book, and we will read a chapter a week, except for the first class on the 11th, when I will be making some introductory remarks. I will be happy to make photocopies of all the chapters of the book, but out of respect for copyright laws, no one should keep the copies. If you would like to have the book to keep, you can either order it on Amazon or directly from the publisher. (Copies are available on Amazon for next to nothing!) For those of you who are interested in having your own copy, here is all the critical information you need:

Title: Is There a God?

Author: Swinburne, Richard

Publisher: Oxford University Press, 1996. (The Revised Edition was published in 2010).

ISBN: 978-0-19-958043-9

If you are interested in attending the class, could you please let me know by sending me an email at rich.holmes@northminsterlife.org so that I can have a rough head count? I doubt many books will arrive in the mail before February 11, so I need to know how many people to make copies of the first couple of chapters for, even if you wish to buy your own copy.

I hope to see you in the parlor at 9:15 on Sunday, February 11, as we begin this exciting class!

Blessings,

Pastor Rich
