ARMAMENTARIUM

Recent Back to School for Doctors seminars focused on nutritional training over the core stages of a lifetime ("Ages and Stages of Life"); the impact of nutritional therapy on 16 branches of the healing arts ("The Nutritional Foundations of the Healing Arts"); and the mature golden years of life ("When I'm 64"). They all prepare us for this year's current post-pandemic class focusing on the life-changing, life-saving, and life-protecting role of nutritional therapeutics applied under the trust of a healthcare professional (HCP).

Consider the word armamentarium. Not a word spoken often, yet regularly used by Dr. Royal Lee to describe the range of formulary and modality he developed and deployed to the trust of HCPs. Oxford defines it as "the medicines, equipment, and techniques available to a practitioner." The Medical Dictionary as "the entire equipment of a practitioner, such as medicines." As an HCP, are you sufficiently versed in the armamentarium needed to change, save, and protect lives every day in practice? We learn more every day, yes. But are we learning at a rate that an increasingly chaotic world puts in our path? Lee, in 1957, incisively put it this way in a lecture: One of the biggest tragedies of human civilization is the precedence of chemical therapy over nutrition. It's the substitution of artificial therapy over natural, of poisons over food, in which we are feeding people poisons trying to correct the reactions of starvation. Do we recognize the reactions of starvation in myriad incipient forms? Are we trying to correct those reactions without the nutrients whose deficiencies precipitated them?

This year, we will train our attention on the life-changing, saving, and protecting protocols developed with doctors from all branches of the healing arts over the past 90+ years. Protocols that involve nutritional therapeutics at the core of their armamentarium—an armamentarium of rescue protocols.

Backed by documented historical discoveries and critically supported by contemporary refereed journals, the old is rediscovered as new, even as the new is substantiated by the historical record. That is the double-hallmark teaching standard of Back to School for Doctors.

Mr. Mark Anderson is completing his fifth decade teaching doctors the compiled works of Dr. Royal Lee. Through lectures, writings, and workshops, Mark has helped train health professionals on all the spokes of the wheel of health. As part of this work, he founded Back to School for Doctors 30 years ago.
