

Trees, trees, and more trees

Ella McCarty, Messiah Lutheran School

As a kid that lives in Fairview Park, I think that trees are very important especially here. One of the reasons why I believe that trees are important to Fairview is because of the wildlife. In Fairview there are so many animals of all kinds, from deer, to opossums, and birds, etc. As the weather gets nicer the trees provide shade and cooling for the animals when they get hot. Not to mention, the trees are the habitats for all of the birds and they also provide shelter and food. As well as, there are so many trees in Fairview especially around the Bain Park area that it serves a perfect air filter, removing harmful pollutants from the air. Also, during the fall Fairview looks very nice and beautiful with all of the colored leaves falling from the trees. I personally feel that Fairview Park is known especially for the woods and valleys, lots of people just move here for the beautiful scenery and views. I think that trees are one of the most precious gifts in the world created by God, and many people including me feel honored to live in a city with an abundance of trees. In conclusion, Fairview needs trees for the wildlife and the environment.
