

AFRICANA CHILDREN'S LITERATURE STORY TIME

The Conjure Woman

AFRICANA VIRTUAL STORY TIME

3:00 PM WEDNESDAY, MARCH 10

The Auburn Avenue Research Library (AARL) will present a virtual Africana Story Time reading of The Conjure Woman by William Miller, and illustrated by Terea D. Shaffer.

A tale of African magic, by the author of Zora Hurston and the Chinaberry Tree. Madame Zina has a strange way about her. She lives alone in a house with no windows. People say she can make the moon burn red and that she can turn the river to salt. But when a child is ill, parents always turn to Madame Zina for help.

Africana Virtual Storytime presents the scope and breadth of AARL's collection of illustrated Africana children's literature - empowering educators, parents, and caregivers with the resources and skills to share stories of the diasporic Black experience with children.
