

Visit scptsas.org/reflections to learn more about the Reflections program

Poetry and Prose in a Pandemic, and Still—I Matter

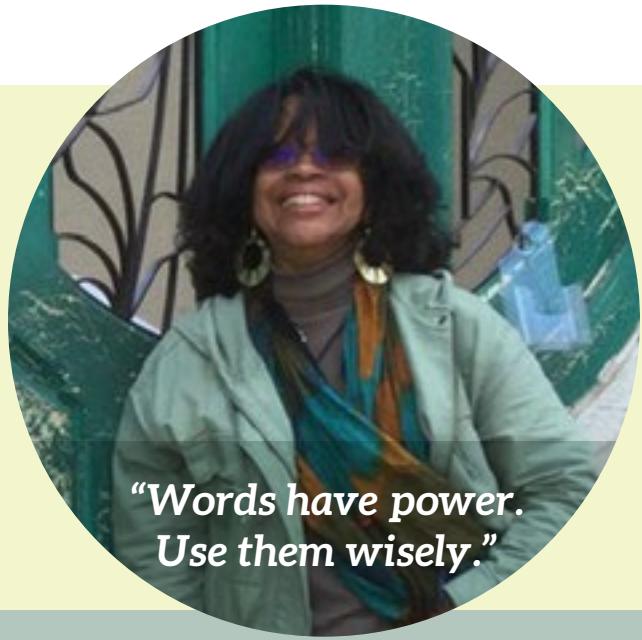

Virtual Poetry Workshop
for SPS High School Students (Grades 9-12)

Tuesday, September 29 at 6pm

Transform your ideas into art! Explore how to express yourself through poetry and prose with the incredible spoken word artists Jaye Ware and CJ Dudley.

Poetry
Hip-Hop
Spoken Word
Song
Storytelling

Register at tinyurl.com/IMatter2020

Jacqueline (Jaye) Ware was born and raised in the Pacific Northwest. She has adult children that graduated from Garfield and Franklin High Schools. Jaye is a poet, spoken word artist, and playwright focusing on children's poetry, and social justice and injustice issues.

She has performed at schools, libraries, festivals, art galleries, major museums, bookstores, and on Vashon and Orcas islands. Her newest short script COVID Dreams, is a hip-hop infused and inspired play produced by Radial Theatre, starring CJ Dudley.

Born and raised in Seattle, CJ Dudley is an accomplished singer, songwriter, poet, author, actor, painter, and clothing designer.

Writing his first song at the age of 14, he would soon come to realize his natural gift for creating melodies and witty punchlines. As he began to gain more experience within the highs and lows in life, new creative avenues were birthed, which allowed him to be able to express himself through means other than just music.

Questions? Contact Jennifer Sunami,
Reflections_Chair@scptsas.org