

Lending Ladies

We all know that building your brand as a real estate professional is essential to differentiating yourself from the competition and your overall success in the market. The best of the best find ways to leverage meaningful and relevant content that engages, educates, and empowers their clients. But even if you settle on a channel mix of social media, email, video, or traditional marketing - how do you find the time to track down content and turn it into quality materials that are of interest to your audience?

The Lending Ladies are proud to introduce Ariana Klein from AB Local to teach you how to start leveraging social media to build your personal brand. For $10 you get 60 minutes of valuable information. Be sure to RSVP to the email address on the flyer as online spots are LIMITED.
