

Wonder & Discovery

Teachers on the Reggio Emilia Journey

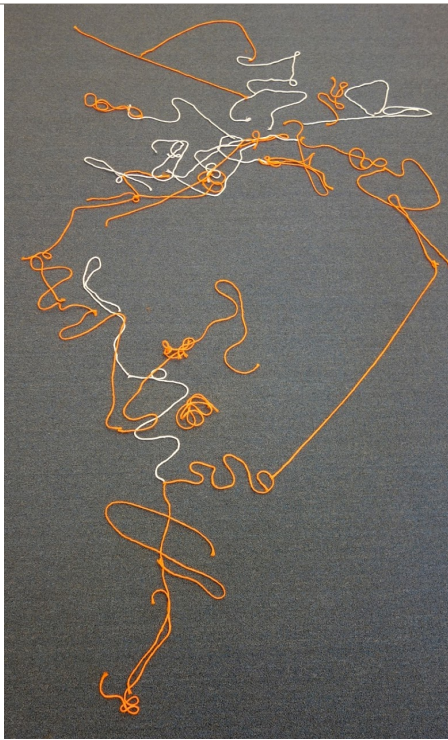

a workshop series underwritten by the Samuel N. and Mary Castle Foundation

Question. Inquire. Challenge. Imagine. You are invited to participate in six consecutive workshops at no cost focused on how to become responsive to the nature of young children's learning. You'll benefit from examining student work, viewing projects, applying workshop learning to your own classroom, and engaging in professional discussion. These questions of practice frame the workshop series:

- Sept. 22: Who is the community of learners? When is documentation?
- Oct.13: How is a project born?
- Nov.17: When is a project a "project"?
- Feb. 16: What is the Hundred Languages?
- Mar. 9: What do I do with documentation?
- Apr. 6: How can we make children's learning and thinking visible?

Where: Mid-Pacific elementary
2445 Kaala St., Honolulu, HI
TO RESERVE A SPACE, send email to Donna Chang, dchang@midpac.edu. Include your name, school/
organization, school position.
Last day to register for the series: September 17, 2018

*Reggio-Emilia expert and child psychologist Dr. George Forman returns as guest presenter at the March 9 session. He has nearly 40 years of experience in university teaching, cognitive research, and educational consulting in early learning. He is co-editor of the seminal Hundred Languages of Children, now in its 3rd edition, and co-founder of Videatives, a video platform that maps learning theory to practice.*

You're encouraged to participate with a colleague or team of teachers from your school or organization so that you can support one another.

Participation is limited in order to benefit from the small group interactions.

Workshop sessions are 8:30am to 11:30am.
Refreshments served.

Certificates of participation will be presented upon completion of 18 hours in the professional learning series.

Thanks to generous support from the Samuel N. & Mary Castle Foundation, there is no cost to the participant.

TO REGISTER BY SEPTEMBER 17:

Send email to Donna, dchang@midpac.edu. Include your name, school/organization, school position.

Questions, contact Edna Hussey, ednah@midpac.edu