Farm Bill Update

United States
Department of Agriculture

Denise Coleman

State Conservationist, USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS)

Denise Coleman has served as NRCS state conservationist for Pennsylvania since April 2010. In this capacity, she manages the overall technical and Natural Resources Conservation Service financial assistance operations for Pennsylvania. She began her career in natural resources conservation in 1992 with the Wyoming County Conservation District as an educational coordinator and Chesapeake Bay watershed assessment technician. Before becoming state conservationist, she was chief of staff for the regional conservationists at the NRCS National Office in Washington, DC, where she served as national farm and ranch lands protection program manager, conservation technical assistance program manager, performance and budget coordinator, and Farm Bill liaison.

Eric Hansen

Government Affairs Manager and Northeast Region Representative, National Association of Conservation Districts (NACD)

Eric Hansen works with the NACD government affairs team to represent America's 3,000 conservation districts and the 17,000 men and women who serve on their governing boards. In addition, he works with NACD's Northeastern states, ensuring they are supported at the national level. Previously, he led the National Young Farmers Coalition's (NYFC) federal policy work. At NYFC, he primarily focused on access to credit, farmland transition, and agricultural easement programs. He also held a fellowship with the Senate Agriculture Committee during the development and passage of the 2014 Farm Bill. He holds a bachelor's degree from Colby College and a master's from Duke University in environmental policy.

Pennsylvania's Energy Horizons

PennState

MCOR

Marcellus Center for Outreach and Research

Tom Murphy

Director, Penn State's Marcellus Center for Outreach and Research

As Director of Penn State's Marcellus Center for Outreach and Research, Tom Murphy supports the Center's mission to pursue science-based research and understanding for the many issues surrounding the development of shale energy in PA and around the world. His current work centers on educational consultation in natural resource development, with an emphasis on natural gas exploration and related topics. He lectures globally on natural gas development from shale, the economics driving the process, and its broad impacts. He is a graduate of Penn State.

Adam Walters

Senior Energy Advisor, Governor's Office of Energy

Adam is Senior Energy Advisor serving in Governor Wolf's Office of Energy where he is committed to developing an integrated approach to energy matters across commonwealth agencies. He works with public, nongovernmental, and the private sectors to assist in planning, implementing, and promoting energy-related projects and initiatives. Previously, Adam was a William Penn Fellow with the Pennsylvania Department of Community and Economic Development, where he supported the agency's goals of developing business investment and recruitment strategies for the commonwealth in the energy sector. He earned his Master of Public Administration from Penn State and holds a bachelor's degree in International Relations.

Denise Brinley

Executive Director, Governor's Office of Energy

Denise Brinley coordinates energy-related matters between state agencies and serves as the first point of contact for federal agencies, businesses, nonprofits, and other organizations in the energy sector. Prior to this role, she was Senior Energy Advisor at the Pennsylvania Department of Community and Economic Development, where she focused on Pennsylvania's energy advantages both by working with economic development partners to retain and grow our energy industry, and by attracting potential investors to the commonwealth. She holds a bachelor's degree in geoscience from Franklin and Marshall College, and a master's degree in geology from the University of Maryland at College Park.
