

CONQUERING KIDS' PAPER CLUTTER

For many families with children, no matter what their ages, staying on top of the huge amount of school papers, art projects and other kid-related items that flow into your home on a daily basis can be daunting. This presentation is designed to give you strategies for dealing with all of those notices, schedules, forms, school work, and especially those artistic “masterpieces” that many of us have piling up as our children grow through their school years. Learn how to manage the flow of kids’ paper into your living space – what to keep and what to let go, and have a system in place to help you make those difficult decisions. Discover some creative and interesting ways to organize and store what stays so that those precious childhood memories can be preserved without overwhelming your space and your time.
