KESSLER FOUNDATION

Virtual Reality Walking and Balance Training for Older Adults with Mild Cognitive Impairment

Scan to sign up

About the Study

This study assesses the effectiveness of combining thinking tasks with walking training to improve walking and balancing ability in older adults with mild cognitive impairment.

This study will provide valuable information to researchers, doctors and therapists who treat older adults with mild cognitive impairment who have walking and balance deficiencies.

For more information:

Kiran Karunakaran, PhD
KKarunakaran@KesslerFoundation.org
973.324.3590

IRB APPROVED 7/30/25
EXPIRATION DATE: 7/29/26
KESSLER FOUNDATION

Lead Investigators:
Kiran Karunakaran, PhD
Sergei Adamovich, PhD
Soha Saleh, PhD

Who is Eligible

- 65 - 85 years old
- Have mild cognitive impairment
- Are able to stand for about 5 minutes

Visits

- Up to 19 visits at Kessler Foundation, West Orange, NJ

Compensation

Participants receive up to $150 for completing the study.

Kessler Foundation
1199 Pleasant Valley Way
West Orange, NJ 07052