Paragraph

The image shows a handwriting practice sheet with a blue arrow pointing to the first line of a paragraph and a red arrow pointing to the end of the paragraph. The sheet is titled 'Paragraph' and has a page number '10' in the top right corner. The first line of the paragraph is indented, and the rest of the paragraph is written on the same lines. The handwriting is a simple, wavy line representing a paragraph. Below the paragraph, there are several blank lines for writing. At the bottom of the sheet, there is a small box with a grid of lines, likely for a student's name and other information.

I admire my mother. She was a housewife and worked very hard for our family. She looked gentle and weak. But she was very strong inside. She took good care of us and always helped others. She was kind and patient. She taught me to be honest and to work hard. I learned many important things from her. Even though she passed away many years ago, I will always admire and remember her. I miss my mother very much.
