

SENSORY & MOBILITY FRIENDLY DAY

@ CLEVELAND BOTANICAL GARDEN

SUNDAY, APRIL 7,
10AM – NOON

Join this special morning for families of children and adults with developmental disabilities. Discover spring and our Amazing Butterflies exhibit, play in the Hershey Children's Garden, network with other families, and participate in special sensory and adaptive activities. This event takes place while the Botanical Garden is closed to the public.

Free for members

$12 per nonmember adult

$8 per nonmember child (3 – 12)

Visit cbgarden.org for more information.

Finding nectar to eat

With all your newly mastered flight
You've built up quite an appetite
Choose the path where you'll devour
The most nectar from the flowers
The postman butterfly can see
If flowers are full or are empty
Of nectar, which it likes to eat
The sugar drink is nice and sweet
The yellow flowers are quite full up
Nectar ready to be sipped Petals go bright orange when
The nectar has been drunk from them
And when the butterfly's been fed
The petals change again to red
The butterflies will try
To find the next one to fly

CLEVELAND botanical garden

HOLDEN FORESTS & GARDENS

