

Notes from Vestry Meeting, September 16

- Dennis Keene has designed an elaborate system for social distancing the choir that involves almost the entire church and singers' masks. They will make recordings on Sunday afternoons with nine singers.
- The Vestry is meeting in October to discuss Racial Equity Investing.
- Ascension has obtained a commercial grade refrigerator and freezer from New York Food Bank. Ascension is in something of a "soup kitchen desert" and this can help us target a group who we can feed for free. This could take the form of to-go containers. Our food pantry has traditionally given out canned protein, which is high in sodium, but we will now be able to give out frozen chicken and fish.
